PHILOSOPHY	"I believe that the early stage of life is when children require the most safety. Kids grow the most from learning from each other and being in an environment that allows this to happen. I provide an atmosphere of love, fun and security. I don't let them watch television often; I would rather take them outside to play. Instead of time outs, I talk to them and explain the situation to them. This is what makes a difference and creates a stronger bond with a provider and helps confidence grow."
